Reporting to: Our Shared Plate Project Manager

Location: Hybrid

Participating neighbourhoods will be located in counties Laois, Kildare and Longford. The role will necessitate travel to two of these areas, at times you may be requested to work at the Neighbourhood Network office (Fumbally Stables, Dublin 8) or at other times work from home.

About the Role:

The role holder will provide leadership, support, and engagement opportunities for neighbourhoods as they develop their own ideas and work towards finding climate resilient food solutions within their area.

This role is about facilitating participation in the project, increasing connections between neighbours, developing and co-delivering educational workshops and being a regular source of support and a catalyst for community engagement. The post holder will build networks for those who take part in in-person events and workshops, and will help to define and develop support models that will work within the context of the individual communities. This includes raising awareness of climate resilience and food security, developing activities, networks and spaces with a view to these becoming sustained locally by participants.

If you are an experienced networker, relationship builder and doer who enjoys working with people, and has an interest in finding creative solutions to climate change, and food insecurity, this could be a great opportunity for you.

About the Project:

Our Shared Plate is a Community Climate Action project funded by the Department of the Environment, Climate and Communications, and facilitated by Pobal. The funded project involves the design, development and implementation of a community garden and food space in nine neighbourhoods in counties Kildare, Laois and Longford. It also involves community engagement sessions, and a series of accessible training workshops. The hands-on community workshops will focus on taking a creative approach to building climate resilience and focus on such things as food waste, food preservation, environmental sustainability, and edible growing. Learnings from this pilot phase will then be adopted into a toolkit which will be used by neighbourhoods nationwide.

About Neighbourhood Network:

Neighbourhood Network (legal entity: Street Feast CLG) is an Irish not-for-profit originally established as Street Feast in 2010.
